The governor made it known that he favors a local tax on personal imconces, a method which, it is said, he believes will of necessity become general within a few years. Local business or occupational taxes and local privilige or luxury taxes are among other means of raising money ad-

As a means of avoiding delay in earrying out such a program the governor recommended creation by the present legislature of a state commisgen, the duty of which would be to make a thorough investigation of the state tax system and the raising of money for the support and maintensace of the public school system." Inquiry would also be made into the apportionment and distribution of public school moneys appropriated by the cities and school districts of the state.

Should Cut Real Estate Taxes.

The close connection between present methods of taxation of real estate and present methods of Snancing the whool system and the peed for fundamental revision were strongly emasted in the message. The taxes on real estate cannot be further increased, and if possible should be reduced. If the cost of local government is to continue to increase. other sources of local revenue must be found. The solution may be found in heat income taxes, local business of

Since 1830, he pointed BIG DEFERENCE IN local government has been borne by real estate, which, since the enactment of the personal income tax law exempting practically all personal prop env from local taxes, remains the entraction of local revenue.

"What is the effect upon the rent Dayer of this presently increasing wrden of taxation on real estate?" the governor asked. The immediate and inevitable effect, he declared. is for the owner of the estate occupied by the rent payer to add as much as possible to the rent.
